Mr. Johnson of Newtown, in a very Mr. Joinson of Newtown, in a very humorous speech, opposed the bill and favored sustaining the veto.

Mr. Payne of Griswold was in favor of sustaining the governor.

Mr. Whiton of New London said that he vote's for the bill when it passed the houre, but now he should vote to sustain the veto.

Speaker Banks Takes Floor.

[Mr. Platt of Milford in the chair.] Mr. Mack of Portland spoke against vor of upholding the veto. Speaker Banks, from the floor speaker Banks, from the noor of the house, spoke in favor of the pas-sage of the bill, but paid a compli-ment to the governor. Mr. Banks took up the bill and went into its different features, and sai' it did not open the doors for a desecration of the Sab-bath, and was much better than the resent law, which makes every man eriminal who does anything secular on Sunday. Mr. Banks said he would yield to any interruption or question, and several members took advantage of the opportunity, but Mr. Hanka answered all inquiries and made a strong plea for the passage of the bill, notwithstanding the veto.

Mr. Banks said that he violated the present law every Sunday, and he was prosecuting attorney too, and if he should be arrested and fined, as he could be under the present law, he should pay the fine and not take any appeal. Mr. Banks was very earnest in his appeal for the passage of the bill, which would give Connecticut a law that could be respected, and would be for the best interests of the best people of the state. people of the state.
